The Circular Social Community is a free-to-join community for small, local businesses in Devon.

We bring together makers, creators, and sellers of preloved, vintage, handmade, and sustainable goods and services to build a supportive network rooted in collaboration rather than competition.

Even if you don't run a small, eco-conscious business, you can play a vital role by supporting the local, independent traders in our community. Every purchase helps keep money in the local economy, reduces environmental impact, and supports people passionate about ethical, sustainable ways of working. By shopping second-hand, handmade, or locally produced, you're helping to reduce waste, encourage mindful consumption, and be part of a more circular, community-focused way of living.

This year we bring you a gift guide bursting with unique, one-of-a-kind gifts, products, and ideas... for you to give your friends, family and loved ones the gift of shopping local, this Christmas. We hope you enjoy!

Not all of our members are listed here, so make sure to browse the full directory on our website.

LETTER FROM THE EDITORS

There's something rather special about giving a gift that has a story behind it. A gift chosen with thought, bought from someone in your community and made by a small business with passion at its heart feels so much more meaningful than something picked up without a second thought.

This Christmas, we're encouraging you to shop locally and mindfully here in Devon. Behind every independent shop, maker, artist, wellbeing practitioner and small business is a person who has poured their time, creativity and energy into what they do. When you spend with them, your money stays closer to home, helping our local communities, high streets and independent businesses to thrive.

Shopping mindfully doesn't mean spending more or buying less for Christmas. It simply means being a little more intentional about what we choose.

Look for gifts that will be loved, used and enjoyed, discover something you wouldn't find on the high street, and consider experiences as well as things. A workshop, treatment, meal, class or day out can create memories that last far beyond Christmas morning.

And perhaps most importantly, remember that small choices can have a big impact. Every purchase from a Devon business is a vote for the kind of community we want to live in; one filled with creativity, connection, character and thriving independent businesses.

So, as you work through your Christmas list, we hope this guide helps you discover some brilliant local businesses and find gifts that feel a little more personal. Have a very local Christmas, and a mindful New Year.

"Buying from a small business brings so much joy - it's a personal and thoughtful gift & a huge boost to the local economy."

ALICE & THREAD

Handmade Children's Clothing

Alice & Thread is an independent handmade business based in Devon, creating gifts and makes for both grown-ups and little ones. From cross stitch and embroidery kits to get you started with making, to ready-made fabric goodies including lavender eye masks, reusable face wipes, pencil cases, coin purses and more - everything is handmade in small batches by Alice.

Alice & Thread is an independent craft business based in Devon, creating a lovely collection of handmade sewing, embroidery and textile pieces.

Formerly known as SimplyWishes, Alice & Thread combines ready-made handmade products with craft kits, making it a great destination whether you're an experienced maker or someone looking to try your hand at something creative for the first time.

Alice creates a selection of handmade textile goods, including hair accessories, lavender eye masks, reusable fabric items, pencil cases and purses, alongside a small collection of thoughtfully made children's clothing.

A particular highlight is the range of cross-stitch and embroidery kits, many of which have been designed with beginners in mind. Each kit includes the materials and instructions needed to get started, making them a lovely way to slow down, switch off from screens and enjoy the satisfaction of making something with your own hands.

From colourful ice-lolly designs to personalised and seasonal projects, there's a playful feel to the collection that makes crafting feel accessible rather than intimidating.

The children's pieces are made in limited quantities using carefully chosen fabrics, with many designs being one of a kind - a lovely alternative to mass-produced children's clothing and something that can be treasured, worn and passed on.

Whether you're looking for a creative gift for someone who loves to make, a thoughtful handmade present, or something special for a little one, Alice & Thread offers pieces made with plenty of care and personality.

Alice & Thread

“I love making clothes that feel a little bit special - beautiful fabrics, playful patterns and pieces made to be worn, loved and passed on.”

There’s also a strong community element to Alice & Thread, with embroidery workshops offering people the chance to learn new skills in a relaxed and social setting.

Workshops cover a range of traditional embroidery stitches, with everything provided to practise and create alongside others. They’re a lovely way to discover a new hobby, learn a skill or give someone an experience gift with a difference.

Alice & Thread is also stocked by a growing number of independent shops across the South West, helping to bring its handmade creations to even more local shoppers and supporting other small, independent businesses along the way.
For a mindful gift, Alice & Thread is a wonderful example of how choosing handmade can give someone more than just a product.
Whether it’s a finished textile piece, a thoughtful fabric gift or a craft kit that encourages the recipient to make something themselves, these are gifts designed to be enjoyed slowly, creatively and intentionally — something to do, keep and enjoy, rather than simply another thing to own.

From a beginner-friendly embroidery kit to a handmade hair accessory, a practical fabric piece or an experience at an embroidery workshop, Alice & Thread offers plenty of ways to give something a little more personal this Christmas.

BY ELY ATELIER

Upcycled materials and slow fashion

1 of 1 Sustainable Slow Fashion. Based in Exeter, UK, a sustainable slow fashion brand.

EXETER

ByEly Atelier is an Exeter-based sustainable slow fashion brand with creativity and conscious design at its heart. Founded by artist, designer and stylist Ely, the brand takes a thoughtful approach to fashion, championing the idea that clothing can be expressive and beautiful without following the fast-paced cycle of trends and throwaway fashion.

Alongside her work as a designer, Ely is also the founder of Open Salotto, a creative and community-focused space that brings together people with a shared interest in art, fashion, sustainability and creativity. This wider work adds a lovely community element to ByEly Atelier, making it about more than simply clothing – it's part of a bigger conversation around how we create, consume and connect.

ByEly Atelier is also involved in sustainable creative events in Exeter, including workshops that encourage people to make use of materials that might otherwise be discarded. The brand is hosting a fabric-scrap keychain workshop as part of an upcoming sustainability pop-up, turning leftover textiles into something useful and beautiful.

For a mindful shopper, ByEly Atelier is a wonderful example of why slow fashion matters. Choosing independent, sustainable designers allows us to move away from constantly buying into new trends and instead appreciate creativity, individuality and the story behind what we wear. A piece from a small designer like ByEly Atelier can feel much more personal – something chosen because you genuinely love it, rather than because an algorithm told you it was the next thing to buy.

ONDA

Ethical and sustainable fashion

EXETER

ONDA is an Exeter-based sustainable clothing brand creating handmade, ethical pieces with a strong focus on slow fashion and reducing waste.

The brand describes itself as being about more than simply making clothes, with every piece designed around sustainability, ethical craftsmanship and a more thoughtful approach to fashion.

One of the things that makes ONDA particularly special is its use of upcycled, rescued and leftover fabrics. Rather than allowing beautiful materials to go to waste, they are transformed into colourful, practical garments, giving fabrics a new purpose and helping to reduce the amount of textile waste associated with fashion. The collection includes adult and children's clothing, as well as pieces such as blankets and other reusable items.

ONDA's clothing is also designed to be versatile, comfortable and genderless, with a focus on pieces that can be enjoyed for longer rather than being tied to a particular season or fleeting trend. Many of the designs are handmade in small batches, while the made-to-order range allows customers to choose their preferred size, style and colours, creating something that feels genuinely personal.

For a mindful Christmas gift, ONDA is a brilliant example of how sustainable doesn't have to mean boring. A colourful handmade sweatshirt, jacket or pair of trousers can be a thoughtful alternative to mass-produced fashion, while choosing upcycled fabrics helps keep existing materials in use.

With every piece handmade in Exeter, you're also supporting an independent local maker and choosing something created with care and purpose.

ELMES JEWELLERY

Craftmanship. Quality. Passion.

PLYMOUTH

Every Elmes Jewellery piece begins long before the shine.

Our jewellery is more than adornment—it's a story of craftsmanship, quality, and passion. Each piece is thoughtfully designed to celebrate your unique journey, blending timeless artistry with modern elegance to create treasures as meaningful as they are beautiful.

I find much of my inspiration in the Devon countryside. I notice the small things : the delicate veins of a sage leaf, the uneven edge of a wildflower, the texture of weathered bark or a shell found beside the sea. These organic details often become the starting point for a new design.

There is something special about a hand-drawn design. It shows the thinking behind a piece. It also leaves room for change. A line may become softer. A shape may become slightly asymmetrical. A detail may be removed so that another one can stand out.

For many Elmes Jewellery pieces, I work with Art Clay Silver. In its raw form, it looks and feels more like soft grey clay than precious metal.

Art Clay Silver is made from tiny particles of fine silver, an organic binder and water. It is wonderfully tactile. I can roll it, sculpt it, cut it and press textures into it before it is transformed by heat.

I’ve always believed that jewellery should be more than just something pretty you pick out from a velvet tray. To me, every piece of jewellery is a chapter in a story. I like to call them "wearable diaries."

Whether you are looking to treat yourself to a bespoke jewellery design or you’re feeling adventurous enough to try making your own handcrafted silver charms at home using silver clay and a blow torch, choosing the right symbol is the most important step. It’s the "ink" in your wearable diary.

There is something truly magical about a piece of jewellery that hasn't just been "picked," but has been created: born from a memory, a specific place, or a feeling that only you understand. Whether it’s a gift for a milestone birthday or a treat to mark your own journey, bespoke jewellery design offers a way to wear your heart on your sleeve (or around your neck).

EXMOUTH

Every single one of us holds a personal stamp. Our personalities, our style, our quirks, our differences, our similarities, our perfect imperfections, and that's exactly what I wanted these pendants to represent.

I didn't want generic, factory-made, cheaply thrown-together tat. I wanted something really special; something that represents YOU.

Something that represents all the different bangs and bumps you experienced, all the different processes you had to go through, the versions of yourself you had to bury and help to RISE FROM THE ASHES, and you STILL came out a shiny, silvery, sparkly BADASS.

Each pendant is handmade, so every one is unique. E.G different texture placement, thread placement, slightly different variations in height or width

TIVERTON

One of a kind

Whether your style is simple and minimalistic or you stack bracelet after bracelet, our handmade bracelets are timeless, elegant and a perfect addition to everyone's wardrobe.

Dalmation Jasper Bracelet

It was very important to me to make jewellery that everyone could afford, without compromising on the standard.

So I did a lot of research and experimenting to find the best materials I could, at a low cost. Every part of my jewellery has been rigorously 'road tested' by me before it's sold.

I started Oscar Rose Jewellery in 2020. I had newborn twins; we were in lockdown, and I felt I needed something to focus my mind.

I found making jewellery very therapeutic and loved having something that relaxed my mind.

I will forever be grateful to my babies for giving me courage and confidence to make my dreams a reality. Having a business that is growing alongside my twins is incredibly special, and I do it all for them.

PLANET SAZ DESIGNS

Ethical and sustainable fashion

Planet Saz Designs is a female-founded small business based in the heart of South Devon.

We specialise in creating unique, vibrant, lightweight jewellery and gifts using the heritage craft of vitreous enamelling. Each piece is meticulously handcrafted, combining traditional techniques with contemporary design to deliver beautiful, one-of-a-kind treasures.

Enamelling is an ancient technique where powdered glass is fused to metal at high temperatures. The result? Striking colours, intricate patterns and a glossy finish. Each piece is as unique as the person wearing it.

To complement the beauty of the enamel, we finish our jewellery with 925 sterling silver chains or plain/colourful cords and hypoallergenic 925 sterling silver wires for all earrings. Comfort and style, perfectly paired.

Customisation is at the heart of what we do. Our pendants are available in a wide range of colours, allowing you to personalise your selection to perfectly match your style or the sentiment behind your piece. Whether you're drawn to vibrant, eye-catching tones or soft, muted shades, we can create a pendant that reflects your individual taste.

Planet Saz Designs is more than just jewellery—it's a reflection of my life, my surroundings and my joy in creating pieces that connect people to something special and one-of-a-kind.

Handmade jewellery makes a wonderful mindful gift because it is something that can be kept and enjoyed for years. Choosing an artisan-made piece also means supporting an independent creative and the time, skill and craftsmanship that goes into producing something by hand. It's a much more considered alternative to buying generic, mass-produced jewellery.

CERA FUSA

Small business. Big hearts.

We started Cera Fusa with a simple goal: to create high-quality, eco-friendly home fragrances without the luxury price tag or unnecessary waste.

After picking up countless candles from well-known home stores which smelt great in the store but just flopped when we lit them at home, we decided it was time to master the craft of candle-making, and that's when Cera Fusa was born. Every candle and wax melt bar we pour is made with sustainably sourced ingredients and packaged responsibly, because we believe indulgence shouldn't come at the expense of the planet.

As a small, independent business, we take pride in every product we make. No frills, no gimmicks, just thoughtfully crafted scents that make your space feel like home. Every order is poured, packed, and sent with care (and probably a cup of coffee nearby).

It's our mission to brighten everyday moments with high-quality, handcrafted home fragrances, thoughtfully made with care and sustainability in mind.

PLYMOUTH

Handmade original artworks

Floating Florals Co. is a beautiful South Devon business celebrating the natural beauty of wildflowers through handmade botanical artwork.

Founded by Rebecca, the business creates original pressed flower pieces, carefully capturing seasonal blooms and turning them into delicate artworks to bring a little piece of the Devon countryside into your home.

The collection includes original flower pressings on paper, alongside mixed-media artworks that combine pressed wildflowers with photographic vase designs.

With pieces inspired by the changing seasons, each artwork is completely individual and reflects the flowers that are naturally available at that time of year. There's something particularly special about choosing an artwork that captures a fleeting moment in nature and allows it to be enjoyed long after the flowers themselves have faded.

We love the mindful ethos behind Floating Florals Co. There's a wonderful slowness to the process – from foraging and pressing seasonal flowers through to creating each individual artwork.

It celebrates the beauty that can be found close to home and encourages us to appreciate the natural world around us.

For anyone looking for a thoughtful, nature-inspired piece for their home or a unique handmade gift, Floating Florals offers something truly special, made with care in South Devon.

HANNAH WISDOM TEXTILES

Original designs

I create my original designs by sewing recycled fabrics onto old admiralty sea charts to celebrate our wonderful coastal heritage and all our favourite marine creatures, places and customs.

My studio is based in the old seaplane hangars at Mount Batten, Plymouth, Devon PL9 9SJ. Visitors are very welcome!

My original textile artworks are created in my Plymouth, Devon studio, using rescued and recycled fabrics sewn onto old discarded admiralty charts. My works show wildlife, history and culture, and the charts add context, providing an immediate linkage to the environment of the subject. The charts bring their own history to the piece, and I love how their scars and blemishes add an extra layer of interest to the work.

My designs are printed across a range of quality home and gift items including lovely new beach towels and my bestselling luxurious velvety cushions, fleece blankets and tea towels. I have a gift and stationery range which includes some beautiful notebooks and jigsaws. Everything is carefully produced by myself and other small UK companies, many of whom are based here in Devon.

I have a gallery and studio in the old seaplane hangars at Mount Batten. You are welcome to come and pay me a visit! I'm usually there Tues - Fri 10-3, but please get in touch if you are making a special trip, in case I am at a market or need to pop out on an errand. I'm opposite the beach, just along from the cafe, and there is plenty of free parking. There's an events area on our website so you can catch me out and about.

PLYMOUTH

Original textile artworks, a one of a kind gift!

What makes Hannah's work particularly special is the materials she uses. Her textile artworks are sewn directly onto discarded Admiralty sea charts, giving old and unwanted maps a completely new life.

The charts provide more than just a background – their markings, scars and imperfections bring their own history to each piece, creating a fascinating connection between the artwork and the environment it represents.

Hannah also uses rescued fabric scraps and remnants wherever possible, making thoughtful use of materials that might otherwise be thrown away.

HOME OF CRAFTY MADS

Unique pieces using broken or unloved costume jewellery

Home of Crafty Mads creates one-of-a-kind handcrafted pieces by transforming broken or unloved costume jewellery into beautiful new treasures.

From framed artwork and trinket boxes to hanging decorations and bookmarks, each item is thoughtfully designed with creativity and care. I also specialise in meaningful memory pieces, using a loved one's jewellery to create keepsakes that honour special moments or celebrate cherished lives, making every creation both personal and unique.

There's something wonderfully creative about the way Home of Crafty Mads sees the potential in things that others might overlook. Every piece is thoughtfully designed and handcrafted, meaning no two creations are exactly the same. Sparkles, beads, charms and jewellery pieces that might otherwise have been discarded are brought together to create something colourful, decorative and full of character.

Alongside these upcycled creations, Home of Crafty Mads also creates meaningful memory pieces using jewellery that has a special personal significance.

Transforming a loved one's jewellery into a unique keepsake offers a beautiful way to preserve memories and keep something meaningful close, while giving it a new purpose.

These pieces are particularly special because they combine creativity with the stories and memories attached to the original jewellery.

LA VIE EN ROSE MAKERY

Art to lift the spirits

EXETER

My studio in the heart of Exeter offers original artwork on the themes of love & joy, as well as a variety of textile art workshops to inspire creativity

For as long as I can remember, I have been a maker, mainly with textiles. Ever since the age of three, when I crept upstairs with an illicit pair of scissors and cut up my dad's beautiful paisley pyjamas, I have loved fabric!! I've spent over 40 years making my own clothes and gifts for family and friends.

I sell my work too, at craft fairs, online and from my studio.

Having worked as a shoe-maker, glove-maker, teacher and art cafe owner, I've realised that, along with being a maker, helping others access their own creativity is where I find most joy!!

I offer electronic gift vouchers on my website, to give the gift of creativity to your loved ones!

I offer a range of in-person workshops in textiles and other crafts, designed to help you unleash your creativity and make something truly beautiful.

I believe that every person has an inner artist just waiting to be let loose!

MATERIAL MUM DESIGNS

Personalised Giftware

Material Mum Designs is a creative Etsy shop based in Devon, specialising in personalised photo gifts and custom keepsakes. Every item is thoughtfully designed and handmade to transform cherished memories into beautiful, meaningful gifts.

My journey began in 2021 when my parents bought me a Silhouette machine — a gift that completely changed my path. What started as a small creative hobby quickly became my passion and my business. With each new design, I discovered just how much joy I get from creating personalised gifts that make people smile.

Living with ADHD means my mind is always bursting with ideas (and sometimes running in ten directions at once!), but that creativity is what fuels my work. Every piece I make is created with care, love, and a sprinkle of chaos — because that's real life!

www.etsy.com/uk/shop/MaterialMumDesigns

Since starting Material Mum Designs, my business has grown more than I ever imagined. I've had moments of doubt, but I've also had incredible encouragement from my family and friends, who have always believed in me even when I didn't. Their support — and the kind words from my lovely customers — keep me going every day.

NADIA DESIGNS

Textile designer/maker

I am a Textile Designer Maker with a focus on sustainability, upcycling, and material experimentation.

PLYMOUTH

I am a Textile Designer Maker. In my world, nothing is disposable. Every scrap of fabric, every offcut, holds the potential for transformation. I don't see waste, I see possibility.

Where others discard, I collect, reimagine, and reinvent. My practice is founded on the belief that materials have endless lives, waiting to be reshaped into something meaningful. Every piece, no matter how small or imperfect, carries a story, and I strive to give it a new chapter.

I specialise in screen printing, digital design, repeat patterns, and repurposing. My process is hands-on and immersive, from concept to creation. Whether working digitally, hand drawing designs, screen printing, or using sublimation techniques, I explore texture, colour, and composition to bring my ideas to life. I thrive on experimentation, pushing creative boundaries to produce unique, visually striking designs.

Nadia
DESIGNS

Sustainable Fashion & Sustainable Choices

Sustainability is a particularly strong thread running through Nadia's work. Her projects explore creative ways to repurpose materials that are often difficult to recycle or commonly treated as waste, including surfboard wax and discarded denim.

Nadia's love of surf culture and her connection to Cornwall also play an important role in her creative identity. From vibrant surf-inspired prints to her collaboration with local surf brand Stay Weird Surf, her work has a distinctive sense of place and personality.

Her approach demonstrates how sustainable design doesn't have to be restrained or minimal – it can be colourful, expressive, experimental and, most importantly, fun.

RACHEL'S READS

Blind Date - with a book!

Hi! My name is Rachel and I own Rachel's Reads. I sell blind date with a books, for adults, teens and kids.

All books are new, and I use recyclable kraft paper, with handmade labels.

Blind date with a book contains bookish goodies such as bookmarks, sticky tabs, pens, stickers and review bookmarks (kids vary slightly!)

I also have a small collection of hand-designed bookmarks, as well as a pre-loved book cart at markets.

Take the guesswork out of choosing a book – or perhaps embrace it! A Blind Date with a Book is a beautifully wrapped mystery read, with the cover, title and blurb hidden from view. Instead, you choose based on a few carefully selected clues, making the moment of unwrapping part of the gift.

It's a fun and thoughtful way to encourage someone to discover a book they might never have picked for themselves. There's something wonderfully nostalgic about not knowing what's inside and simply taking a chance on a new story.

SASSY UPCYCLING

Unique upcycled jewellery and accessories

CREDITON

I design and handcraft unique upcycled jewellery, including dangle earrings, pendants, bracelets, anklets, and rings.

Each piece is thoughtfully created using preloved beads, semi-precious crystals, sea pottery, vintage charms, and reclaimed elements from old, broken, unwanted, or vintage jewellery.

Upcycling is a trendy and chic way to elevate your jewellery and home!

Hello, I'm Sara, founder and designer of Sassy Upcycling, an eco-friendly jewellery business based in my home studio in Crediton, Devon.

Sustainability is at the heart of my work, and I strive to use as many recycled and repurposed materials as possible in every collection, giving forgotten treasures a beautiful new life.

Alongside my jewellery, I also upcycle vintage mirrors, transforming them into one-of-a-kind decorative pieces with renewed character and charm.

My passion for jewellery-making began with a love of colour, creativity and vintage treasures, but it has grown into something much more meaningful. I am passionate about sustainability and believe that beautiful things deserve a second chance. In a world where so much is thrown away, I love rescuing old jewellery and giving it a new purpose.

SEAGLASS BY SOPH

Seaglass art and watercolour

I am a local sea glass art and watercolour business.

I create sea glass and watercolour art, including frames, cards, A6 postcards, bookmarks, log slices and tags. I also take commissions and am starting sea glass jewellery.

There's something wonderfully magical about sea glass. Once an ordinary piece of glass, discarded and forgotten, it can spend years being tumbled by the sea until its sharp edges are softened and its surface transformed into something beautifully unique.

For artists, this makes sea glass a particularly special material to work with. No two pieces are quite the same; each has its own shape, colour, texture and history. Soft greens, frosted whites, pale blues and occasional flashes of rarer colours can be brought together to create artwork that feels both delicate and full of character.

Using sea glass in art is also a beautiful example of giving something a second life. Rather than creating from something new, artists can take a material that might otherwise have been overlooked and turn it into something meaningful. There is a lovely sense of connection between the sea, the maker and the finished piece – every fragment carrying a little reminder of where it came from.

As you will see throughout the collections, each print has its own striking design whilst being manipulated in a variety of different colour palettes to suit everyone's taste. So no need to worry; there is always something to match a customer's choice of colour palette.

I also offer a variety of design services such as bespoke invitations, baby announcements, wedding stationary and so much more. Drop us an email...I would love to hear your idea.

I also run a sister brand called In This Design where I can help you create strong and creative branding that will always help you stand out from the crowd.

A print is also a lovely gift for someone who has everything. It doesn't need to be a huge or expensive gesture; a thoughtfully chosen piece of artwork can bring joy every time they look at it. And when you buy from an independent artist, you're also supporting their creativity and helping a small creative business continue to grow. Aya's work has already reached a wider audience through collaborations with John Lewis, making these colourful designs a wonderful way to bring a little piece of Devon creativity into your home.

Their motto, 'Make Lovely Things', perfectly captures the joy at the heart of the shop.

There's something wonderfully nostalgic about choosing your own materials and sitting down to make something with your hands, and Bunyip makes it easy to get started.

Whether you're looking for beautiful buttons to breathe new life into an old garment, colourful beads to create your own jewellery, fabrics for a sewing project or one of their specially created craft kits, there's plenty to spark the imagination. Their online shop also features a selection of fun and unusual supplies, including novelty buttons, beads and jewellery-making kits.

COMMUNALLY CURATIVE CREATIVES

More than just a shop...

Communally Curative Creatives is more than a shop - it's a community space for workshops, exhibitions, conversations, and creativity in all its forms. We are beyond excited to open the doors and share this adventure with you.

We are Karen and Vanessa - sisters, mothers, and now the team behind Communally Curative Creatives. With pottery in our family roots, business know-how, and a shared love of creativity, we have established a shop and community hub in Budleigh that's centred on workshops, exhibitions, and connection. We can't wait to welcome you!

Step into the calming, creative world of clay. Claytime with Karen offers hands-on pottery sessions designed to inspire, relax, and connect. Whether you're shaping your very first piece or exploring new techniques, each session is a chance to slow down, get messy, and discover the joy of making.

You'll have the opportunity to try a variety of approaches – from coiling, slab building, and pinch pots to throwing on the wheel and decorating with colour. Every class is guided with patience and encouragement, so you can leave with something that's truly your own.

All tools, materials, and tuition are included in your session fee. If you'd like your finished piece to be dried, fired, and ready to collect, there is a small additional charge per item to cover kiln time and glazing. You'll also be welcomed with free tea, coffee, and biscuits to keep the creativity flowing.

Claytime is more than just a pottery session – it's a space to play, to learn, and to share a little time with clay in good company.

DEVON CREATIVE

Workshops for everyone

BUDLEIGH

Devon Creative Workshops is all about making space for creativity, connection and trying something new. With a focus on hands-on creative experiences, the workshops offer a chance to step away from the everyday and spend some time making, learning and enjoying the process.

There's something particularly lovely about a workshop where you don't need to be an expert – just curious and willing to have a go.

Creative workshops also make wonderful gifts because they offer something beyond the usual present: an experience. Rather than buying something that may eventually sit unused, you're giving someone the opportunity to learn a new skill, meet like-minded people and create something they can be proud of. It's a lovely way to gift time, creativity and a little bit of joy.

For anyone looking to embrace more mindful and analogue activities, Devon Creative Workshops are a lovely reminder that creativity doesn't have to be perfect. It's about letting your mind rest, getting your hands busy, experimenting, having fun and enjoying the satisfaction that comes from making something yourself.

GINGER + MAKE

Artist, teacher & maker

PLYMOUTH

Welcome to Ginger + Make. I'm Jenni, an artist, teacher, and maker on a mission to make creativity feel accessible, enjoyable, and meaningful for everyone.

I truly believe everyone is creative. Sometimes that creativity just gets buried beneath busy lives, self-doubt, or the idea that being creative is something you're either born with or you're not. My hope is that Ginger + Make helps people rediscover that part of themselves and feel inspired to build a creative life that fits around their own.

www.gingerandmake.co.uk

I'm slowly, but very intentionally, building a creative life I once only dreamed about, and I'd love to share part of that with others too. Whether that's through a handmade personalised wire sign, a creative workshop, or a craft club.

I run beginner-friendly creative workshops, creative clubs, and handmade wire writing sessions in Plymouth and South East Cornwall, helping people build confidence through creativity and making. Whether it's through sewing, wire work, crafting, or just trying something new, I believe making really does matter.

INKY FINGERS WORKSHOP

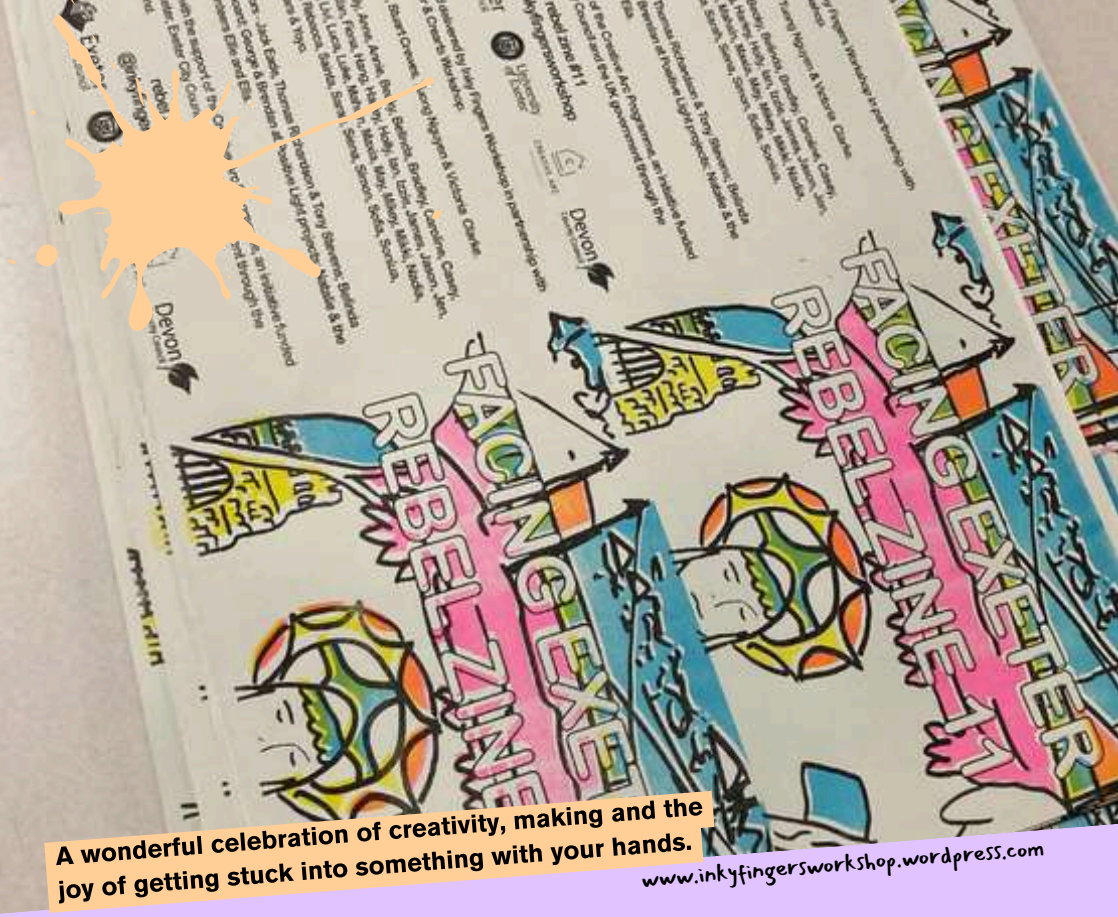

A social action project in Exeter

EXETER

A creative outlet

Inky Fingers Workshop has been running since 2016 in Exeter. We are a social action project and produce a range of cool recycled stationary products.

A wonderful celebration of creativity, making and the joy of getting stuck into something with your hands.

www.inkyfingersworkshop.wordpress.com

Inky Fingers Workshop is a project with high social and environmental values. It offers meaningful activity for adults with learning disabilities, making great products in a zero-to-waste environment.

Based in Exeter, the company also holds welcoming spaces where people can explore different creative techniques, learn new skills and meet others along the way. Their regular Collage Club is a lovely example, offering an informal, artist-led evening of hands-on making, conversation and plenty of inspiration.

Sustainability is at the heart of what Inky Fingers does. The team makes use of hundreds of old books and stacks of paper each year, giving these discarded materials a new purpose rather than sending them to waste. There's something wonderfully satisfying about finding an old book that has now been illustrated with vintage photographs, filled with post-consumer waste paper and transformed into something completely new.

For a gift, Inky Fingers' reuse notebooks offer something a little different: not another thing to own, but something to personalise and enjoy. Whether you're a writer, artist, cook, crafter, enjoy journaling, or just need somewhere to put down all those lists… In a world of increasingly digital outcomes, there's something wonderfully refreshing about time spent writing, drawing, cutting, sticking — and getting a little inky along the way.

Alongside our workshops, we also offer three fantastic, flexible and affordable spaces available to hire.

THE UPCYCLE COLLECTIVE

Upcycled materials and slow fashion

A vibrant selection of upcycled shoes, clothing and homewares created to make you smile!

Upcycled shoes, garments and homeware to promote sustainability and to raise money for charity. Preloved items that have been upcycled into something new! Giving old items a new lease of life, and making them unique and one-of-a-kind!

We help spread the skill and knowledge of upcycling in our workshops! Keep an eye on our Facebook page to find out when and where the next one is! Got a question? Simply give us a follow and drop us a message! We are passionate about upcycling, showcasing our pieces on Facebook.

EXMOUTH

The Upcycle Collective is a brilliant example of how something old can become something completely new. Creating a vibrant collection of upcycled shoes, clothing and homewares, they transform preloved pieces into unique, one-of-a-kind items that are made to make you smile. Rather than following the traditional cycle of buying something new and eventually throwing it away, The Upcycle Collective gives existing items a new lease of life while helping to promote the skills and creativity behind upcycling.

Upcycled gifts are also a great reminder that sustainability doesn't have to mean sacrificing style or fun. From clothing and footwear to homeware, these pieces celebrate creativity and show just how much potential there is in the things we already have. And with The Upcycle Collective also running workshops to share the skills and knowledge behind upcycling, they're helping more people discover the joy of making something new from something old.

CHLOE UDEN ART

Artist, creative facilitator and cultural strategist

EXETER

Working at the intersection of energy, ecology, participation and imagination.

For nearly two decades I have worked across the worlds of art, climate engagement and the energy transition, exploring how creativity can help people connect more deeply with each other, with place, and with the systems that shape our lives.

My work sits between disciplines. I collaborate with communities, artists, engineers, policymakers, cultural organisations and energy practitioners

www.chloeuden.art

I was the founder and Artistic Director of The Art and Energy Collective, a collaborative practice exploring the relationship between art, energy and social change through participatory artworks, public engagement projects and creative climate initiatives. Through this work I helped develop projects, partnerships and conversations that brought together creativity, climate engagement and energy transition work across cultural and community contexts.

Alongside my independent practice, I have worked extensively within the UK energy sector, including as Arts and Culture Lead at Regen, where I have helped explore how creativity, participation and cultural engagement can support public conversation and systems change around the energy transition.

I'm particularly interested in participation as a form of cultural power: not simply asking people to observe, but inviting them to shape, question and contribute.

CONNIE ELIZ ART

Original hand painted mandalas

Connie Eliz Art is a creative practice centred around the beautiful and intricate art of mandala making. With a strong focus on creativity, self-expression and personal wellbeing, Connie's work is inspired by her own journey through life and a desire to create a safe, calming space through art.

Mandalas have a naturally soothing quality, with their repeating patterns and intricate details encouraging us to slow down and become absorbed in the creative process. Connie's work captures this beautifully, creating pieces that feel personal, colourful and full of intention. Her art is not simply about creating something visually beautiful, but about using creativity as a way to explore, express and connect.

Connie also takes commissions, making her work a particularly lovely option for a meaningful and personal gift. Rather than choosing something mass-produced, a commissioned piece can be created specifically for the recipient, making it something that feels completely unique to them.

For a mindful Christmas gift, Connie Eliz Art is a lovely choice for anyone who appreciates creativity, colour and a little bit of calm. A handmade mandala can bring a sense of personality and tranquillity into a home, while buying directly from an independent artist means supporting their creative journey and the time, care and meaning behind their work. It's a gift that feels considered, personal and made with heart.

Nestled on a gentle hillside in the heart of the Blackdown Hills, East Devon, Wild & Verdant Flower Farm is where nature's splendour meets artisan craft.

NICOLA'S CHOCOLATE

Bean-to-bar chocolate

EXETER

I'm Nicola, a passionate chocolate maker and educator, former primary school teacher and mum, crafting handmade bean-to-bar chocolate from my small chocolate factory in Exeter. For years, I've been obsessed with the journey of cacao - from the farmers who grow it to the rich, complex flavours it holds.

At Nicola's, chocolate isn't just a sweet treat - it's an adventure. I source ethically grown, fine-flavour cacao from small farms around the world, carefully roasting, stone-grinding, and tempering it in small batches to bring out its true character. No shortcuts, no unnecessary ingredients - just pure, thoughtfully made chocolate.

I believe great chocolate should be experienced, not just eaten. That's why I also create hot chocolate flakes and cacao husk tea, offering new ways to explore the flavours of cacao. Through chocolate tastings and workshops, I love sharing my knowledge and passion, helping people explore chocolate in a whole new way.
